

[FROM BASELWORLD]

cx Swiss Military's 12,000 Feet

has an incredible 3,657 meters of water resistance, an unthinkable dimension for diving watches. The Oceanographic Institute of the University of Southampton has successfully tested and certified the water resistance of this limited edition chronometer both in a pressure tank and in the Atlantic Ocean. The watch has 25 jewels, a 48-hour power reserve, solid stainless steel case and bracelet/genuine rubber strap and screw-down crown and pushers. The massive double-pusher butterfly buckle with safety catch ensures the bracelet will not open up unintentionally. A high-end phosphorescent material ensures perfect readability even in complete darkness.

The original cx Swiss Military watches are manufactured in Switzerland by Montres Charmex SA and have been used successfully by a multitude of army, navy and airforce units worldwide.

